A DAIRY EXPERT TALKS.

Professor Robertson, dairy commissioner, was interviewed by a Free Press reporter on his arrival in Winnipeg after visiting the Northwest and he gave some interesting information about creamery matters, and voiced a new idea for the better placing of settlers on the lands. Replying to a question as to whether he advocated government management of creameries, the professor said:

"Only in the Northwest Territories now where conditions still exist which seem to require the help of the government along that line. Besides, as there is no provincial government, and as the Dominion government is deeply interested in the value and sale of land there, it is fitting that it should give the farmers who have gone there, such help as is necessary to enable them to do well. The experience of our management of the creamery at Moose Jaw will show what I mean. A building there was erected by a joint stock company of farmers and business men. None of them had practical experience in creamery management. After the building was put up, there was grave probability of its being left unused, as a monument for the discouragement of farmers in other sections, who might be disposed to try a joint stock creamery venture. When the government took the management of the creamery in 1894, the farmers in the locality had confidence that it would be managed in such a way as to yield them the largest possible net returns out of their milk and cream. That year, the turn over of butter was a little over $5,000 worth; last year the output amounted to $10,000 worth, and this year the prospect is that it will amount to over $15,000 worth. The season's output would have been nearly one third larger than it is, had it not been for the severity of the plague of mosquitoes and flies. This year, the charge made by the government of four cents per pound for manufacturing the butter will cover all expenses incurred, and leave the sum of $200 or more, to be paid as rent to the shareholders of the company who own the building.

"In several localities where creameries were erected in 1894 by joint stock companies of farmers, who undertook to manage them, inexperience, want of capital, the lack of adequate commercial agencies for the sale and economical handling of the product, the absence of suitable storage accommodation and facilities for safe transportation to the market, caused so much dissatisfaction and loss, that most of these creameries are now idle, or are being carried on with so little support from the farmers, that loss is being entailed in the management.

"Consequently, I have suggested that in any community where, say 30 farmers, located in a section of country suited for dairying, (1) form a joint stock company or cheese or butter manufacturing association; (2) subscribe $500 in cash, and (3) guarantee the milk or cream from 400 cows, the Dominion government shall loan from $2,000 to $2,500 to that company, to enable it to build and equip a first class creamery. Then the department of agriculture shall undertake the management, as we now manage the creamery at Moose Jaw, charging the actual cost of manufacturing, which is not likely to exceed four cents per pound of butter. Then, a further charge of one cent per pound of butter should be retained, to form a sinking fund for the repayment to the government of the loan. In that way from four to six years would suffice to make the creamery with its equipment, the property of the joint stock company of farmers. From time to time, as the fund from the one cent per pound accumulated, stock in the company would be issued to the patrons of the creamery, in proportion to the sums contributed by them under that rate."

Regarding the settlements of the vacant lands Professor Robertson said: "In the districts which are still unoccupied, but suitable for comfortable and profitable settlement, the manner of allotting lands to immigrants is most important. Where settlers live a mile or more apart, the very sparseness of settlement, more than their small number, prevents the development of the country in every sense and way. It would greatly promote the well-being of the settlers and the speedy development of the country, if, in every area of say six miles square, a central section could be set apart as a village or residential section. Then, every settler taking up and performing the settlement duties on 160 acres, or one-quarter section, would be entitled with it to three acres of land in the residential or village section. The remainder of it might be reserved for school sites, townships hall, and village park. The details could be worked out in a variety of ways, to serve the particular localities or districts; but that method of settlement seems in every way preferable to the haphazard way in which settlers get placed, or place themselves, remotely from their neighbors.

Finally, the professor expresses his faith in the Northwest as follows: "I believe in the Northwest so thoroughly that I think its problems and difficulties need to be investigated still further in a thoroughly systematic way, probably by a special commission, in order that progress, settlement and development may be made along lines which may be followed year in and year out with the greatest measure of benefit to the settlers, the lowest cost to the government, and the largest possible advantage to the whole Dominion of Canada."

AMERICAN STOCKS.

Toronto Week: The shrinkage in American securities still continues and the gold deposit is still being eaten into by withdrawals. Where is it to end? The democratic candidate for president having been accepted by the populists and both parties having substantially the same platform, the American voter ought to know what to expect. But he does not; because the republican candidate is a Mr. Facing-both-ways. What he is certain about is that McKinley is protectionist to the hilt. Meanwhile the interim report of the secretary of the navy shows a feverish anxiety as to the construction of new battleships and new gunboats. They are being pushed as rapidly as possible. Everything betokens the greatest possible political dangers. English people view with grief these symptoms of American social troubles. Many unreflecting persons say that it is only the politicians who are making all this noise. But they do not belong to the generation who saw the beginnings of the southern rebellion. Politicians did the talking there, but they dragged in the Lees and Jacksons and Polks, men who were not politicians, and behind them thousands of peaceful citizens who were ultimately called upon to die for their homes invaded in retaliation for rebellion urged on by "politicians." The sober, steady man of business finds himself coerced by the good-for-nothing carpet-bagger. The God-fearing, church-going father of a family is compelled to leave his comfortable home at the bidding of corner grocery loafers. There has been too much pandering to the worthless element in the United States. Now respectability finds itself helpless before anarchists and socialists, before Coxey, before Bryan, and before McKinley. The "boss" is apparently supreme. We believe that he will be hurled back into the mud he came from. But there is going to be a terrible struggle before victory goes to the elements of society which are stable and descent. It is their own fault for letting go the reins, and they will pay dearly for their infatuation. But in the end honesty, order, and religion will triumph and the regenerated United States will be the better for the bloodletting they will have received.

BLAKE FOR PRIVY COUNCIL.

Tribune: The feeling is very general throughout Canada that Hon. Edward Blake should be awarded the position on the judicial committee of the privy council which is being tendered to Canada by the British government. Mr. Blake is the acknowledged leader of the bar in Canada. Always more of a lawyer than a politician—even when leading the liberal party in the house of commons—his warmest admirers never failed to insist that he must be seen in the courts to be seen at his best. And it is nothing but justice to say, remarks the Montreal Star, that that best is a princely excellence. His speeches in the house, particularly upon important occasions, were more like the addresses of a great lawyer to a bench of judges than the appeals of a political leader for popular support.

As a member of the highest court of appeal in the empire, it is generally conceded that Mr. Blake will abundantly maintain the high character of that tribunal, and reflect honor upon the colony which he more particularly represents. No man could well be chosen who would be more familiar with the details of Canadian law, for he has made it the highest purpose of his great abilities to understand that law, and has had no small share in welding it into its present shape. The experiment of putting colonials into the Imperial Privy Council for judicial purposes, will be tried, if Mr. Blake be chosen, with the best chances of success. As a privy councillor, he will be known as the "Right Hon." Edward Blake, a title borne during his later years by Sir John Macdonald.

FITZPATRICK SPEAKS.

At the annual picnic of St. Paul's church, Toronto, the guest of the day was Hon. Chas. Fitzpatrick, solicitor general of the Dominion. Mr. Fitzpatrick was retained for the defence in the trial of Lewis Riel, and also in that of McGreevy and Connelly. In the course of his address at yesterday's picnic he said he was proud to proclaim himself an Irishman and an Irish Roman Catholic, believing as he did in the words of a famous Irishman that no one, whatever his nationality is, can make a prouder boast than the man who boasts of the bravery of his Irish forefathers and the immaculate purity of his Irish maternity. He was proud of his faith, which coming down through many generations, burns as brightly to-day on the Vatican hill as it did 2,000 years ago on Golgotha. Irishmen in Canada should ever cherish the old land, but they should allow the love of the land of their birth or adoption to shine ever more brightly. Canada was a glorious land, not only in its natural resources, but also in its governmental system and its constitution which guaranteed to every man that freedom and liberty to which free men are entitled. The country was in a measure prosperous, but there was room for improvement. The possibilities of Canada were enormous, so great that one could scarcely grasp their extent. As Irishmen they should go hand in hand with their fellow Canadians of all races and creeds for the purpose of accomplishing the development of the grand possibilities surrounding them, and by so doing assist in building up their country.

NAMAO.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Samis died on Wednesday morning. The funeral took place to-day to Nammo cemetery. The little one had been ailing ever since its birth. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of the neighborhood at large. Rev. C. B. Freeman, of Edmonton, conducted the funeral services.

Mr. Crow, of Toronto, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. McLaghlin. Mr. Crow is in business in Toronto and reported dull times in that city. He is pleased with what he has seen of this district and thinks a poor man has a better chance to get a start here than in the east.

FORT SASKATCHEWAN.

BIRTH—At the English church parsonage, Fort Saskatchewan, Aug. 2nd, a daughter to the Rev. G. C. D'Easum. Miss Segars is visiting Major and Mrs. Griesbach at the Fort here.

An informal garden party was held by Mr. Marriaggi on his farm east of the town on Saturday last to celebrate the arrival of the new grade coming through his property. This road will shorten the trail from the Fort to the settlements on the east very much, and it is to be hoped will become a much travelled thoroughfare into the town.

Chas. Pacholke, of Beaver Creek, has the sympathy of the district in the loss of his wife who died at the residence of Mr. Geo. Ferguson, Fort Saskatchewan, where she had been staying for some days. The funeral took place from her late residence at Beaver Creek Friday, 14th inst.

CORRESPONDENCE.

EDITOR BULLETIN.

DEAR SIR: Having noticed the Free Press article about you on the bonus to the Fast Atlantic steamers I would with your permission say a few words.

The Free Press quotes Sir William Van Horne as an authority, and his phrase "that Canada did business on a back street long enough," as unanswerable. We can all point to back street businesses that are quite profitable, and we can remember those who not satisfied to do business on the back street, when they made money, moved to the front street with its plate glass and marble fronts and came to grief. I rather fancy that Sir William if he took stock would find that his business done on the Canadian back street is much more profitable than that on the U. S. Avenue. There may be more glory in hauling silks and teas from Vancouver to Boston than cattle from Calgary, but there is not so much profit. And if Sir William would sell his wares as cheap in the back street store as on the front street, I am sure that his business would largely increase.

The question, however, for Canadians to answer is: Will it pay them to bonus a fast Atlantic line of steamers for the satisfaction of carrying American passengers from San Francisco and other cities to Europe? If they think it will why of course we are not so poor that we cannot afford the luxury. But it seems to me that for the better development of our country a much smaller amount spent in helping settlers to make a start in life would do more good. We want creameries and cold storage facilities; we want cheap and rapid transit for our perishable goods. To the west of us they want concentrators and smelters and above all better railway accommodation, Canada, and Sir William can find plenty of room there for any surplus energy. What has Sir William done for the mineral regions of British Columbia? Practically nothing. His ambition now seems to be in procuring and holding town-sites in that country.

Yours truly,
CANADIAN.

GENERAL NEWS.

Baroness Tennyson, widow of the late poet laureate, is dead. She was the daughter of Henry Bellwood, Esq., and was married to Baron Tennyson in 1850. Her son Hallam Tennyson, is at present Baron Tennyson.

In 1875 the number of passengers carried on Canadian railway amounted 5,190,416; in 1880 to 9,672,506, and in 1896 to 13,987,380. In the two decades an increase of 169 per cent is shown. The tons of freight transported were in 1875, 5,670,836; in 1885, 14,650,271; and increase in the 20 years of 280 per cent.

The number of emigrants who left England for Canada during the month of July aggregated 2,684, a decided increase over returns for the corresponding month of last year, when the number of emigrants was 2,103. The returns for the seven months of 1896 are 14,679, as against 12,601 for the same period of 1895.

Commercial: There seems to be almost a scarcity of men available for farm work, and the few obtained in the city are asking $20 to $30 per month, including board. The recent storm, which destroyed the crops of some farmers, has led to the cancellation of some applications from farmers for harvest hands. The first farmers' excursion from Ontario will leave Toronto on August 18 and reach Winnipeg on August 20. About 2,000 farm hands will be brought up altogether. The chief demand for help comes from the western part of the province. It has been found necessary to go to the States for railway laborers. A squad were brought from Duluth for the Dauphin road.

Free Press: "Mr. Engelland who has been in the province for the past three months looking over land for German settlers, left for Germany to-day. He will return in the spring with several families, who will help up land here. Mr. Engelland has bought a well-stocked farm and is much pleased with it." Mr. Engelland lately visited Edmonton, and went out to Stony Plain.

In spite of denials it is generally believed that professor Mendell, the insanity specialist, has been summoned to St. Petersburg to attend the czar who is said to be in a state of extreme nervous excitement owing to the discovery of renewed nihilist activity. The czar is reported to be in hourly dread of his life, and hundreds of arrests have been made during the past fortnight at St. Petersburg, Warsaw, Kiev and Moscow.

The oil fever is reaching the height of excitement at Bothwell, Ont. The town is full of strangers, who are desirous of securing lands to operate. Property is going up every day. One farm was sold on Friday for $4,000, which was offered two years ago for $800. All the wells are pumping large quantities of oil, and many new ones are under way. Hiram Walker has five drilling rigs at work, and all in the hands of experts. Mr. Sparie, who has charge of the whole work, is an expert of long experience in Illinois and other states.

Winnipeg Tribune: The value of the United States silver coin is at a very low ebb in Canada just now, and war has been declared against it. The banks are determined to get rid of the Yankee coins, and no wonder at this. They have taken the initiative and the public are following on properly. Merchantile houses, insurance companies, hotels and restaurants have all announced their intention of accepting nothing but Canadian coin. Every person should now look carefully to their change if they do not wish to have useless coin passed upon them.
